“The genius of the ESG movement—and we have to recognize how clever this movement actually is—is they are able to find the pressure points. And so they’re able to find who can we go to to essentially get leverage over these companies.”

In this episode, I sit down with Kevin Stocklin, writer and producer of “The Shadow State,” an EpochTV documentary that investigates the industry of environmental, social, and corporate governance, also known as ESG.

“If you’re a farmer, you pretty much have to dance to their tune. And they have gone out and they’ve said to their farmers as a result of the ESG movement, ‘This is what we want you to do. This is how we want you to produce. These are the processes that we want you to follow if you’re going to sell to us,’” says Mr. Stocklin. “It’s the banking industry, it’s the asset management industry, and it’s the insurance industry. And if you can get these folks on board, you can control everything else.”

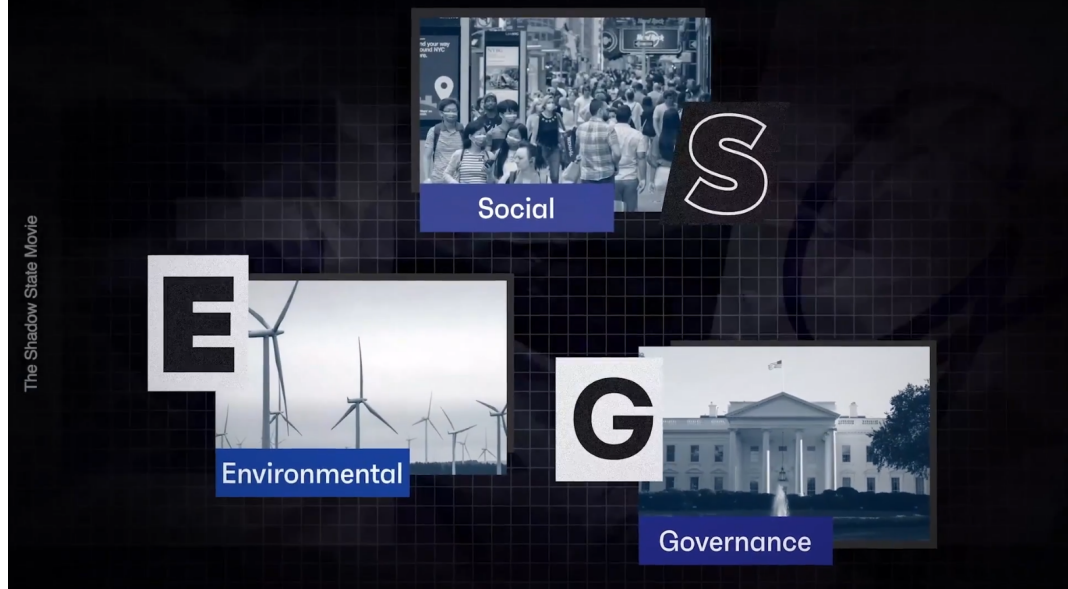

How does the ESG mechanism work? Who are the players involved? And is there a way to push back?

“We’re starting to see the power that private industry has to control us in a way that, in the West at least, the governments legally can’t do,” says Mr. Stocklin.

He explains how ESG is both an industry and an ideology. Put simply, it is a way to use consumer money to impose a progressive agenda on the private sector in America.

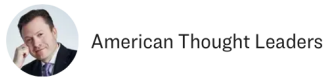

“Even though it’s our money that’s funding the whole thing, they basically are the ones that have the votes, and they’re able to put pressure on companies to essentially do what they want them to do,” says Mr. Stocklin.

[PREMIERING 9/21, 9PM ET] Liz Wheeler: The Grip of Technocracy and How Self-Avowed Marxists Enforce Social Coercion

“The nations that had staged successful Marxist revolutions didn't do it on purely economic grounds, but first had attacked the civil institutions, which is just another word for the cultural institutions of the working class.”

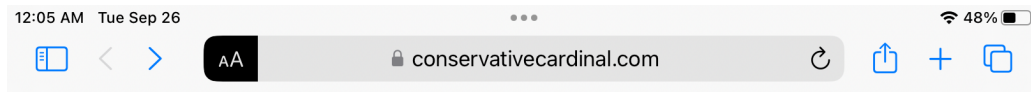

In this episode, I sit down with Liz Wheeler, host of The Liz Wheeler Show and author of the new book “Hide Your Children: Exposing the Marxists Behind the Attack on America's Kids.”

“We've forgotten to protect children's innocence, and that's a key part of the Marxist strategy to destroy our country, is to subvert the innocence of our sons and daughters,” says Ms. Wheeler. “Social Emotional Learning is one of the most interesting parts of how the Marxist ideology is reaching everyone's children.”

What are the key ways in which the far-left takes power, and how have they been successful in re-engineering society? Why might the concept of “neutrality” actually be a trap?

“We've fallen for this idea that we shouldn't insert any kind of values or moral order into our society,” says Ms. Wheeler. “The Republican Party has embraced libertarianism as conservatism, but it's not.”

The WHO, Gates, and Blackrock's Global Health Agenda

Gabrielle

In an era where global health concerns are at the forefront of public discourse, a startling revelation emerged.

The World Health Organization (WHO), backed by influential billionaires and financial corporations, is quietly expanding its reach and control over international health regulations.

The WHO is currently spearheading a comprehensive initiative for pandemic prevention, which includes a Pandemic Treaty and significant changes to health regulations.

These changes, expected to be finalized by next year, could potentially grant the WHO unprecedented power over global health policies.

“No Farmers No Food: Will You Eat The Bugs?” is an Epoch Original documentary exposing the hidden agenda behind global “Green Policies,” the untold stories of farmers forced out of business, the disruption this will have on our food supply, and why edible bugs are suddenly being pushed to the fore as a “Global Green Solution.”

EpochTV program “Facts Matter” host Roman Balmakov investigates the rapidly changing landscape of our global food source—the farming industry—through interviews with farmers in The Netherlands, Sri Lanka, and the United States. This is the next global crisis that is being ignored by the world’s media.
